

Turn off applications on an Apple Device

These steps will show you how to turn off applications that are running on the background of Apple devices that may affect how other applications launch or function.

- Get to your Home Screen.

- Double click the Home Button really fast to see all the apps running on the background. Notice how the majority of the screen turned light and you only see highlighted icons at the bottom as illustrated below.

- Touch and hold anyone of the icons at the bottom for about 5 seconds or until you see them all dancing at the bottom. Once you see this action, please let go and notice how they are all still dancing and have a Red Circle with a Minus Sign  as illustrated below. Start tapping on all the Minus Signs of the icons at the bottom to stop them from running on the background. This is NOT deleting anything from your Apple iOS device, just stopping it from constantly running on the background.

- Once you have stopped all the apps from running in the background and the bottom of your screen looks like the #1 picture as illustrated below, just push your Home Button once on your Apple device to get you out of this mode and you will see your main screen as illustrated on the #2 picture below with all your apps intact.
